Photographs are routinely taken at all guild activities. Photos, along with the name of the member, may be displayed on the RCQG website, in the newsletter and in archival productions. The understanding is that, as members, permission has been given for their names, work products, and participation to be recorded by the RCQG for promotional purposes and by the general public for personal use only. Knowing this, each member assumes individual responsibility to choose whether or not to participate—wherever and whenever this applies.
